Organising Committee

Expectation of Attendance

In order to ensure a high-quality technical program, authors of every paper or abstract that has been awarded final acceptance for presentation are expected to attend the conference and present their work. This is a crucial step towards publication in the conference proceedings, which are indexed and widely recognized in the scientific community. Please note that publication in the Scopus indexed conference proceedings is contingent upon both registering for the conference and presenting the full paper. We look forward to seeing you at the conference and sharing your valuable contributions with the wider scientific community.
